The Senate yesterday passed the joint resolution authorizing the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to issue its bonds for the construction of the road, and to secure the same by mortgage. It was shown in the debate that the lands already granted by Congress to the various Pacific railroads exceeded the combined area of Great Britain and France, and it was hinted outside that the pending bill was one of the greatest lobby schemes now before Con-

There are eighteen cases of contested elections yet to be disposed of in the House of Representatives: One from Colorado, one from Alabama, one from Arkansas, one from Virgioia, one from Indiana, one from North Carolina, one from Ohio, one from Texas, two from Kentucky, two from Tennessee, two from South Carolina, two from Louisiana, and two from Missouri. In three of these cases, it is thought, no testimony will be offered against the sitting members.

The Washington correst ondent of the N. Y. Post says :- "In conversation with your correspondent last evening, previous to the passage of the Georgia bill by the Senate, the President said he hoped the Pomeroy amendment would and likely to cause trouble; and he added, with a good deal of emphasis: 'I want reconstruction to end, and the Pomeroy amendment only delays it."

In reference to the Georgia bill, as it passed the Senate, it is said that the Democrats voted to substitute Mr. Pomeroy's bill for the original Hause bill; but when the two last sections were added, in reference to the President um ploying the military in any State to suppress disorder, and revising the Georgia militia, they declined to vote at all.

The most horrible and ghastly murder ever perpetrated in Baltimore took place yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Catherine Marsh, residing in North Central avenue, near Jefferson street, deliberately butchered her four children, the oldest eight years of age and the youngest three, by cutting their throats with a knife. One she killed in the yard of the school where he attended, and the others at her own home. She also inflicted serious but not necessarily fatal injuries upon her own mother. On being taken to the Police Station, she was seemingly unconscious of the dreadful crime she had com mitted -of the murder of her own offspring. An hour or two after she recovered somewhat, and during a portion of the night was greatly affected, manifesting her deep sorrow by moans and cries. At other times she was quite calm, and gave lucid answers to questions asked her, She said she was born in county Kerry, Ireland, and came to this country very young. She was married about nine or ten years ago, to her husband, William Marsh, a barber, who had previously been in the employ of Cornelius Green. Her husband twelve or eighteen months ago left her and went to Chicago. The registered voters of Baltimore were yes ter-lay called to vote upon three ordinances, one authorizing the issue of one million of dollars of City Hall bonds, another to authorize the issue of Baltimore Water Stock to the amount of three hundred and seventy thousand dollars, and the third authorizing the funding of eight hundred thousand dollars of the city floating debt by the issue of bonds to that amount. The to:al amount of these obligations is therefore two million one hundred and seventy thousand dollars. Notwithstanding the immense amount of money involved, there were seriesly 3,000 votes polled, and, each of the ordinances was carried.
